

McLean County Work-From-Home Recycling BINGO

“Installing updates” on computer slated for recycling... probably won’t finish before drop site reopens	Wiped something with a reusable cloth since paper products are hard to come by	Procrastinated by shredding old papers (remember to bag before recycling)	Made space to safely stow hazardous household waste until the next collection	Finally memorized “bottle, tub, jug, or jar” (the only plastics that go in the bin)
Hung bag of “clean plastic bags for return to retailer” in middle of room for use as a punching bag	Treated a cardboard box like it’s the curve (flattened it)	Thanked a hauler for their work	Downloaded (or already have) the Recycle Coach app*	When in doubt, threw it out! (non-recyclable items cause havoc for recyclers – better safe than sorry)
Resisted the urge to repurpose disposable gloves into balloon animals	Trimmed a pizza box to recycle the clean bits (dirty bits go in trash)	This space has been FreeCycled: it’s yours if you want it, no strings attached	Started (or already have) a backyard compost pile	Didn’t trash that Freecycle-able item, even though you’re tired of looking at it
Contacted Ecology Action Center to inquire about recycling or disposal of an unusual item	Found the error on the chess board pictured in Recycle Coach	Took out take-out trash (these containers are not recyclable)	Landed paper in the recycle bin from &gt; 6 feet away (if during a Zoom meeting, take another space for free)	Tossed a paper towel or cleaning wipe in the trash (these are not flushable)
Reused an old shirt to fashion a face mask (if it was a superhero mask, take an additional space for free)	Stopped recycling dad jokes	Built a temporary modern art sculpture out of items awaiting bulk pickup	 Hid some recyclable beverage containers under the other recycling	Followed Ecology Action Center on Facebook for recycling updates, tips, and occasional attempts at humor
